CLIMATE, real estate and brass bands make a most intoxicating mixture here in California. There's nothing like it.

Mrs. CLEVELAND declined to take part in a New York flag presentation because her husband was not invited.

ST. JOHN says the Prohibition party is going into the campaign of 1888 with ardent spirits. This is a shocking alliance.

The New York Tribune's detailed reports from all parts of the State show that the Republican party is everywhere in excellent trim in New York.

On a general review of the political field, so far as party events and policies have developed themselves this year, the Republicans have good ground for encouragement over the prospect for 1888.

Who could improve upon the September days of California? The person who is not content to live and flourish in a land like this would be sure to grumble at the best the other life could give him. There is no discounting the glorious e. of C.

THE Iowa Democratic Convention declared for high license and local option. The opposition was vigorous, but the action was safe, since Iowa has prohibition in its Constitution. If Iowa had high license and local option, its Democrats would be in favor of low license.

THE declaration of the Iowa Democratic platform that "Federal officers no longer neglect the duties of their offices for the manipulation of party politics," is rich reading when illuminated by the attendance of forty Federal officers at the Pennsylvania Democratic Convention.

THE Albany Times, a Democratic paper, declares that the demonstration against the President, at Wheeling, by the Grand Army was the expression of "a deep-rooted sentiment against the President; engendered by the President himself; and, although he has long since seen the danger of it, his fool-friends evidently have not."

THE following extremely able and timely suggestion is from the military pen of the medical director of the Chicago Inter Ocean: "Old veterans visiting St. Louis should fill their canteens before reaching the corporation line. A little package of citric acid is good to kill the wigwagtails of St. Louis river water. A dime's worth will last a week."

LOS ANGELES—"the southern folks"—get a set-back from San José in the words and figures following, to wit:

"Too much 'boom' has made the southern folks of the blooming and booming south, when you are brutally accused of having the Big Head with a large B and a big H, is it not about time for you to reach for wet towels and draw in your horns?"

DEMOCRATIC and Southern papers are yet selling because the Grand Army refused at Wheeling, W. Va., to march under a flag to which the portrait of the President was attached. Which leads the Boston Journal to remark: "It would not have harmed them to have done so, and they probably would have done so had it not been hung out by an ex-Confederate and Democratic editor as a challenge. Why not scold the silly fellow who hung the banner out—a thing which was never done by Republicans to stir up strife in that organization?"

THE case of the young man McCauley, a trusted clerk of the California Central Railway, who abused his employer's confidence and ruined his own bright prospects by embezzling railroad money, is a sad enough one. There may be sympathy and apology for the young man who, under the desperation of debt, took money not his own in hope that he might recoup himself by a little speculation in cards. But what shall be said of the prominent business men who took that stolen money from him at poker, and have made no move toward restitution when they know that the money was stolen? He stole the money under the desperation of financial ruin; they cold-bloodedly sat down to receive the stolen money from him, and are cold-bloodedly keeping it.

Convention of Republican Clubs.

The committee of the Republican Club of New York city, to which was referred the matter of a general convention of clubs, as heretofore mentioned in these columns, has submitted a report in the form of suggestions to the various clubs in the country, which are requested to make immediate answer to Mr. Henry Gleason, No. 92 Beekman street, New York city. The suggestions upon which the opinions of all Republican clubs are asked are as follows: Each club to have five delegates in the convention and have one vote; the convention to be held in New York, in October or November, 1887; the convention shall neither name nor recommend a candidate for President, the primary object being to consider the methods of organization and conducting campaign work; that leading Republicans be invited to address the convention on the leading issues.

The call has been sent to over 100 clubs, and the New York club urges all clubs that have not yet heard from the committee to send their address and take other steps to participate in the convention. California is not too far away for her Republican clubs to respond and to send delegates.

Our Ever-Widening Boom.

People of the northern counties of the State who have been inclined to sneer at Southern California and belittle our prospects as much as possible, have hardly realized what a short-sighted policy they have been pursuing. The fact is that the Southern California boom is the little leaven which is fast leavening the whole State, and if these jealous up-country people had succeeded in squelching us, they would only have been helping to make their own cake dough.

The lumber trade furnishes an interesting case in point. Two years ago San Francisco and the far northern counties found their investment of some $50,000,000 in saw mills, timber lands and the accessories of the lumber trade, almost dead capital. The carrying trade scarcely paid interest on the investment, to say nothing about covering risks. The extra demand for lumber in the southern counties, caused by the boom, took up all the surplus and gave a healthy tone to the business all along the line. Then the supply exceeded the demand. Now the demand exceeds the supply. A year ago freights between Humboldt Bay and San Pedro were $4.50 a thousand; now they are $8. A year ago two-thirds of the lumber supply went through the Golden Gate, and one-third came to southern ports. Now, one-third goes through the Golden Gate and two-thirds finds market in the south. The difference furnishes the odds of profit for the lumber trade; and those formerly next to idle $50,000,000 are now earning from 50 to 75 per cent a year for their owners. This means prosperity for other germain industries and hastens the day of general prosperity for the north.

The up-country people who sneer at our boom cannot see beyond their noses. The suggestion made by his Honor, Mayor Workman, at the last meeting of the Council, in relation to the issuing of bonds by the city for the improvement of its parks, is a timely and wise one. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars is no more than should be appropriated for improving and beautifying our public parks. That amount might be expended to place Los Angeles nearer the level of other cities of its size in relation to such public improvements. We need a large park for recreation, to which we can escape from the dust and heat of the city, from its noise and turmoil to quiet restfulness. As cities grow in wealth and population, such improvements become imperative adjuncts, not only to their beauty, but to their healthfulness. Independently of hotels and street paving, there is no improvement so much needed at present by this city as an extensive park properly laid out, provided with walks, with an abundance of shade, with views from level and upland, with fountains and arbors, and with a variety of plants and flowers. What would New York lose if her Central Park were taken away? Take from Washington city the parks with which it is so generously provided, and no sum of money would be adequate to represent the loss which the city would sustain. Washington is notably a healthy city, and always has been, in spite of its low-lying "Potomac flats," and its once brawling and turbid Tiber. If the secret of this were traced to its source there can be no doubt but it would be found that its forty or fifty parks—those great lungs of the city—had a good deal to do with it. And they add no less to its beauty. The land embraced within the limits of Elysian tract has some obstacles in the way of its being all that the city could desire for its principal park, among which is the lofty attitude of some portions the ground. But this difficulty may be largely overcome, and the site be made one of great beauty and of popular resort. Park-making is a very different thing in California from what it is on the opposite seaboard. It need not be many years before Los Angeles may have an extensive park which shall be one of her prominent attractions. It would be well in such a park to plant trees of every variety. The infinite variety in tree growth which we could show would be of the greatest interest to the stranger. It would be an eloquent commentary on the character of our climate. It would furnish a display of beauty such as New York in all the wide limits of her Central Park could not show, nor Washington in her leafy wealth and blossoming charms ever hope to attain. In a climate like this, where Nature so successfully supplements all efforts at tree and plant-culture, the city should take pride in seeing what can be accomplished in the adornment and improvement of her public parks. In this thing America has much to learn of the old world. The old cities beyond the seas take no less pride in their parks than do they in their public buildings. Americans cross the water and write home about the grand beauty of these charming parks, and then come back and drop into the utilitarian habits of this country again, and do not do anything in the way of urging such improvements upon the attention of their countrymen.

There is no question but what the American people are too practical. We do not give the attention we ought to those natural embellishments. But we are not too old to improve in this respect. Let Los Angeles set about the work at once.

STANFORD's scheme of a very low fare for immigrants from the Missouri River to California has immense possibilities in it. It would make a veritable boom in travel westward, and would it not tend to produce the same effect as did the cut rates a year or so ago, when a large influx of good-for-nothing adventurers arrived here with nothing in their pockets, nothing to do, and a strong disposition to do it? No doubt, however, that among the thousands of newcomers would be many honest settlers, whose coming would be good for the State. By not spending their money for railroad fare, they will have just that much more left to invest in Los Angeles real estate at bed-rock prices. Happy thought! Thanks, Mr. Stanford—awfully!

The announcement in our local columns of the launching at San Francisco of a Los Angeles-owned steamship—The Pasadena—ought to be a matter of congratulation to Los Angeles as an "inland" city. That the exigencies of traffic have induced one lumber firm to embark in a maritime venture ought to be a good and hopeful sign. Other firms, to keep up their end of the competition, will doubtless follow suit. It is well known that a prominent grain dealer of this place is now in Europe, purchasing an iron steamship to engage in the grain trade between the port of Wilmington and Liverpool. In time the shipping interests of Los Angeles will, no doubt, become extensive.

DISPATCHES from the City of Mexico represent that religious matters are largely entering into the politics of the country. The Clericals seem determined to oppose the development of intercourse with the United States, as favored by the Diaz administration, and the Clerical organs all over the country show marked hostility to the United States and American institutions. Leading Liberals say that Gen. Diaz will be triumphantly reelected in order to show the American people that Mexico is opposed to reaction and desires the continued friendship of her powerful and enterprising neighbor.

THE Democrats of Shelby county, Ind., have sent Mr. Higgins an urgent invitation to visit them September 17th. The Shelbyville Democrat tells Mr. Higgins that "the old Andrew Jackson Democrats, the pure Jeffersonian stock, the real mossbacks, the boys who carry the torches, beat the drums, and roll up the majorities on election days, are anxious to see you and shake your honest hand. They want to see you because they love you, and they love you, too, because the enemies you have made—the Mugwumps."

THE colonel of an Alabama Confederate regiment, with considerable ostentation, sends back to the Governor of Connecticut the captured battle-flag of the Sixteenth Connecticut Volunteers, with a letter professing that "the flag is returned because of indisposition to retain a memento of the triumph of brother over brother." The profession would weigh more if the flag had not been retained twenty-three years in the hands of the alleged charitable brother.

A DEMOCRATIC paper in Pennsylvania gives a partial list of the Federal officers who attended the Democratic Convention in that State. Forty is said to be a low estimate of the number of Federal officials who took part in the proceedings in violation of the President's order of July, 1886. But then the President would not have issued such an order in July, 1887.

HERE is a "want" advertisement from a Waco (Texas) paper. What meaneth it? WANTED—100 HANDS TO DRIVE scrapers and wagons, also shovellers. I will pay $1 per day or $20 per week, and board. Will give work for six months. Address SANFORD JOHNSON, P. O. Box 187, Los Angeles, Cal.

Tender Recollections.

(Atlanta Constitution.) Twenty-three years ago yesterday a route agent named W. T. Sherman piloted the biggest party of excursionists into Atlanta that ever visited Georgia. Efforts were made to entertain the party here, but they decided to extend their trip to Savannah.

Appreciative.

(Pasadena Star, Sept. 9.) The LOS ANGELES TIMES gave Pasadena a handsome endorsement in the well-written article which appeared in yesterday's issue. The people here appreciate THE TIMES' generosity, and are glad to reciprocate.

Southern Arizona Still Struggling With the Results of Floods.

The State Fair Proving a Brilliant Success—Another Report About Mrs. Ford and Her Abducted Children—State Capital Dolars—Fresno Notes.

By Telegram to The Times. SACRAMENTO, Sept. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] The Board of Equalization today closed its voting on the assessments of thirty-two counties cited to appear. San Francisco was allowed to stand as made, and the board complimented Assessor Nealon by stating that he and Assessor T. V. Matthews, of Santa Cruz, had made the clearest and best arguments and explanations of any county officers that had been before them. Los Angeles was voted a reduction of 10 per cent. Its supporters moved for 30 per cent. of decrease, but this was voted down, and a motion for 15 per cent. was carried. Contra Costa county was raised 10 per cent. Humboldt 15 per cent. Kern county 10 per cent. Lake county 10 per cent. Sacramento county 10 per cent. San Mateo 15 per cent. Yolo county 10 per cent. All the remainder of the thirty-two counties cited were allowed to stand.

The Work of Repairing Washouts Going Forward Slowly.

TUCSON (Ariz.), Sept. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] Three trains of ties, iron and bridge material lying west of Texas Hill will arrive here some time tomorrow. This lifts the blockade to California. A wrecking train with 300 men, beside the forces at Pantana, will commence operations on the washouts at Cienega on the arrival of the material. Five locomotives and passenger cars transferred from this city to Wilcox by stage today. It is expected that the road will be clear from Wilcox to Tucson in three days, when mails will be transferred to the Santa Fe. The road at Texas Hill for three days, flooding the depot and other buildings. The rains have extended throughout the Sierra Madre and State of Sonora, more water having fallen there this year than the combined precipitation of six years. Railroad officials here say that the road at Cienega can not be made passable in three weeks. City Manager Ormsby, of the Western Union, had a great experience in getting a wire through the washout in Cienega. For three miles he and his helpers had to swim the swollen waters, several times being nearly drowned by the rushing trees and poles. They succeeded, however, in getting one wire, notwithstanding that heavy rains were falling all day. Three miles of new wire have been built. All the new lines will not be up before ten days.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—On account of the washouts in the vicinity of Benson, Ariz., the Southern Pacific Company has arranged with the Atlantic and Pacific and Santa Fe that all west-bound freight will be shipped from the washed-out district via Denning and Albuquerque and Majave.

REALTY CALIFORNIA.

Favorable Report from the State Board of Health.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] A circular of the State Board of Health, showing the sanitary condition of the State for August, has been issued. The deaths reported make the percentage a fraction over 1 per 1000 in the month, which is the lowest death record that has yet been made in this State. The circular, among other things, says: "If the reports of prevailing diseases are to be taken as fair evidence of the sanitary condition of the State, California must be considered just now as probably the freest from disease in any State in the Union. Nearly 100 different localities have been heard from, comprising towns and cities, and no one of them has announced that any serious disease is prevailing, the general tenor of the reports being no sickness in August. We find that of these sporadic diseases which are inseparable from food, clothing and temperature, cholera infantum, diarrhea and dysentery are the most frequent. In no locality are either of them epidemic."

Young Robinson and two other boys jumped on one of the cars. As the space was crowded Robinson jumped off and attempted to get on the last car. Doing so he lost his footing and fell under the car, the last wheel of which passed over his left leg above the knee. An examination shows that the limb was mashed to jelly. Amputation is necessary. It is doubtful if the boy will recover. Herk, the boy's stepfather, came to this city a short time ago from Phoenix, Ariz.

After the oath had been administered by Judge McFarland, the Governor read his inaugural in a loud and clear voice as follows:

IN AURAL ADDRESS.

My Fellow-Citizens of the State of California: One chosen by you as Chief Magistrate has passed away. Of him there is left to us the memory of an upright man, a true friend and faithful public officer. By nature gentle and by training stern, he possessed the courage which decided convictions give, and never faltered in the discharge of his duty, public or private. For many years a quarter of a century he has been identified with public affairs, and has always deserved and received the confidence of the people. As Clerk, Senator, Mayor and Governor, he leaves behind an unblemished record; as a man, he endeavored himself to do right, and with his own example in life he was the representative of the best type of American citizen; in death, his example survives for the emulation of those who would deserve well of the people. Chosen at the last election by you to the office of Lieutenant-Governor, the duties of the office devolve upon me, and must by me be exercised. Called suddenly and unexpectedly from the field and mine to this responsible position, I may be pardoned, if with misgiving I enter upon the discharge of its duties. If an earnest desire to do right, if a firm determination to carry out the sacred trusts reposed upon me, if I have just taken away to that end, I hope to discharge the duties of the high office in a manner to merit your approval. In the administration of the office I shall always be willing to receive, indeed shall seek counsel and advice, and at all times with patience and deference from any of my fellow-citizens whose right may be affected by official acts of mine. With the American doctrine, that governments are instituted to secure life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, I am in full accord. With the imported heresies of the Communist and Socialists, I have no sympathy. Their doctrines are subversive of our State institutions, and those who promulgate them should be held as enemies of mankind. With these views, I can give you an assurance that my administration of the Executive Department will be within conservative limits. The enforcement of laws, preservation of the public peace, encouragement to great interests of this growing State, accountability on the part of public officers and economical administration of State finances ought to be leading objects of consideration, and shall be, so far as the Executive is concerned; but, above all, I will ever receive my approval which may disturb the peace of society, or which invalids any of the fundamental rights which are at the foundation of our government. Coming as I do to this office, I feel it my duty to assure you that, during my term of office, I will give you as far as the Chief Executive is concerned, will be conducted in accordance with those principles which are dear to every true American citizen. WASHINGTON.

Cleveland Defends the Government's Financial Policy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—[By the Associated Press.]—In regard to the purchase of bonds by the Government the President said yesterday: "The criticism on the action of the Treasury Department for its refusal to accept any of the offers of bonds last Wednesday, it seems to me, is inconceivably made. In the first place the offers were higher, considering the lapse of time they had to run, than they had heretofore been, and did not present as favorable terms to the Government as the offers of the number of bonds which were less than on former occasions. These facts may well give rise to the inference that people holding bonds preferred them to money."

ILLEGAL SEIZURES TO BE SEIZED.

In answer to an inquiry today relative to the statement made in the British House of Commons by Sir James Ferguson, to the effect that the United States Government had ordered a discontinuance of seizures of British vessels sailing in Alaskan waters, Secretary Bayard said that he knew nothing of the making of an order such as described.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] In the Commons this evening John Philip Nolan, Home-ruler, asked if it was true that William O'Brien was confined in a cell and that if Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, meant to order reasonable accommodation for the prisoner.

Balfour had no knowledge respecting the nature of the cell occupied by O'Brien. Of course it was his desire that O'Brien be comfortably confined, and the prison rules, he said, provide that untried prisoners should have reasonable accommodations. Nolan hoped that the Government would relax the prison rules applicable to political offenders in Ireland, and he especially urged a modification of the degrading duties enforced on common criminals.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

An Iron Find—Great Discovery of Iron Mines Near Los Angeles.

LANG STATION, Sept. 13.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] Immense iron deposits have been discovered near here—first by reality of iron. A ledge of about 1000 feet in width was found by a party of Frenchmen. They have had the rock assayed in San Francisco and Los Angeles. From both places the reports agree that it carries about 24 in silver, the balance iron. Excitement is high. I went over to the mine and examined it, and in my judgment it is genuine, and a great discovery. Several old iron miners say they never saw finer iron rock. It is in the mountains in a dismal cañon, seldom trod by human foot, but bears and lions live perfectly secure there. An old grizzly came walking down the cañon last Friday and took a look at the Frenchmen's camp in open day, and passed right by as important as a king. In my opinion there is millions in this discovery, for everyone pronounces it the best of iron rock. I have recorded claims for twelve Frenchmen. Anyone wishing to test the rock can get it from me, as I have plenty of it at my house.
